In discussing his resolution calling for an avestigation Col. Fellows said: "It has seen disclosed in the criminal proceedings in France that two or more millions were sent to this country to secure control of the Paname Railroad, and thus to obtain a firm grasp on the isthmus commerce. The French managers and their American abettors, however, called to take into account the rights which this country held under the New Granada treaty. This treaty made the establishment of the railroad under American suspices pos-sible, but the Frenchmen conceived the idea of capturing both the treaty privileges and the railroad with the connivance of certain Americans.

"With the railroad and canal under their control they figured that commerce between the gulf and the Pacific would be under their personal regulation without the possibility of effective protest from the United states. This in-tigation will bring to light many features the Panama affair, which have been partly cured by the graver developments in the ch courts, but these questions are of greater importance to Americans and American interests. In the first place, however, the connection of Americans with the scandal should be sifted and how the millions were shared should be fully ascertained."

Col. Fellows' resolution has been referred to the Rules Committee and it will be probably reported within a few days.

The resolutions provide for a select committee, as Col. Fellows believes the investigation of such an important matter would ha er importance to Americans and Amer

Fellows believes the investigation of such an important matter would be more thoroughly prosecuted than if it were referred to a regular committee already burdened with legislative bills. The special committee will have nothing to divide its time and the investigation will not meet with any delay. There appears to be no doubt that the Rules Committee will report the Fellows' resolution favorably. The diplomatic phases of the Panama affair are attracting considerable attention here.

CHARLES DE LESSEPS' ATMISSION. CHARLES DE LESSEPS' AIMISSION.
On Wednesday of last week M. Charles de Lesseps, while undergoing examination in the French Court of Appeals as to the dispostion of the immense fund paid out by the Panama Canal directors, was closely questioned about the amount paid out in America. De Lesseps said that he had given 12,000,000 francs to the American committee. When asked if he did not think that a very large

"Their assistance was considered very valuable. I would have arranged to disburse a much larger sum to accomplish this purpose."

The agreement made by Count Ferdinand De Lesseps on his visit to Washington in March, 1880, was for six annual payments to the "American Committee." The first payment was 3,100,000 francs. A year following a payment of 1,500,000 francs. A year following a payment of 1,500,000 francs was to be made, and subsequent annual payments of 1,500,000 francs for five years. This established a fund of $2,500,000 in the hands of a committee in nowise responsible to this Government, with which to boom the canal and influence the American people in its favor.

CHARMAN THOMPSON.

Of this committee Richard Thompson of Indiana, then Secretary of the Navy in President Hayes' Cabinet, was Chairman at a salary of $25,000 ayear.

To a Hoosier lawyer $25,000 a year was the income of a Vanderbilt. He accepted, resigned his place at the head of the Navy Department and was installed in the chair of the committee. It was then that De Jesseps was enabled to inform the Tranch people, with a flourish of trumpets, that the American Government was odeeply intersect in the success of the canal that the distinguished while the of Marine of the United States had likely the Administer of Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer of Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer of Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer of Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seepled the Administer for Marine of the United States had seen and States had seen

EFFORTS TO TRACE THE MONEY.

There have been efforts on the part of the French Government to trace the exact expenditure of the money of their countrymen that was sent to the United States to be employed as a corruption fund. Count d'Abzac, the Consul-General of France at New York, acted for the Government through his attorney, Edmond Huerstel. A document known in legal parlance as a letter rogatory was sent over and a series of questions propounded.

sent over and a series of questions pro-pounded.

There was a general denial on the part of the bankers concerned, each and all of whom shook their heads innocently and assured their interlocutor that they did not permit the use of their names in the Panama swin-dle for a consideration. Proofs of a docu-mentary nature were not produced and the attorney for the Consul-General was disan-pointed over the meagre knowledge the men of money professed to hold in regard to the subject of their relations with the canal company.

The report which was sent back to France was unsatisfactory. "Uncle Dick" Thomp-ion, at his home by the billowy Wabash. answered the questions with inn ed the questions with innocence and ace. He admitted that his stipend was $25,000 per annum, but said the other members of the committee received no emol-ument for the use of their names. His testi-mony left the Consul-General deeper than ever in the depths of darkness as to how that $2,500,000 was expended.

DR. HERZ UNDER ARREST.

HE IS AT A HOTEL IN LONDON TOO ILL TO LEAVE HIS BED.

LONDON, Jan. 20. - Dr. Cornelius Herz, the American implicated in the Panama frauds, was arrested at midnight last night on a warrant issued on demand of the French gov ernment on the charge of having been fraudulently implicated in Panama swindling and corruption. The detectives assigned to make the arrest went about their work very cautiously, as although it was reported that Herz was sick, it was thought from his prerious record, both in America and France, vious record, both in America and France, that he might be shamming lilness and would take an opportunity to escape. It was known that Herz was at the Tankerville Hotel, Bournemouth. The detectives started for Bournemouth after dark, and although not especially gotten up, they presented the appearance of ordinary travelers. When they presented themselves at the hotel they at first stated that they had come to London and proposed to stay a short time, and as if incidentally asked for Dr. Herz. The reply was that Dr. Herz was too ill to be seen. The detectives then replied: "We are officers of the law and must see Dr. Herz." the law and must see Dr. Herz.

The clerk said: "Allow me to announce you in advance, and no doubt he will be will-''No,'' said one of the officers firmly. ''We will announce ourselves. Let the porter show us the rooms." Show us the rooms."

The porter led the way to Dr. Herz' apartment and knocked at the door. It was then midnight, and the indications were that all within were asleep. After a few minutes the door opened slightly and a female voice asked what was wanted.

The porter, who appeared to have the best of teelings for Herz, who is said to be very liberal with tips, made reply with much feeling that "A gentleman wants to see the doctor, ma'am."

"But he is asleep and cannot be disturbed," answered the voice, which was that of Mrs. Herz.

"We are sorry, madam," put in one of the detectives."

detectives, "but we must see Dr. Herz at once. We are officers of the law, and although we wish to act with all propriety and consideration, we must perform our duty. Please tell Dr. Herz to dress at once. In the meantime we will wait in the ante-room."

The detectives quietly opened the door, Mrs. Herz retiring to her husband's sleeping apartment. She came out in a few minutes. Her face showed signs of grief and agtiation, and she could hardly restrain tears as she said: "Gentlemen, Dr. Herz is too ill to get up. You are welcome to go in and see for yourselves."

The detectives entered the sleeping room.
Dr. Herz was in bed. He had just been propped up with pillows by his wife. His face looked pale and wasted, his eyes were sunken and he bore every sign of being a very action without medical advice. The doctor who had been attending Dr. Herz was called in. He declared that Herz was in such a serious condition of lilness that he could only be removed at the imminent peril of his life and that from present appearances it would be impossible to remove him for some time. The detectives telegraphed this statement to London and wers told to guard the prisoner, but to take no action towards his removal without further instructions. The detectives then took turns at watching, one of them remaining near the sick man while the other found what rest he could within easy call.

nergetic preparations to contest the effort o extradite him to France. He has retained ir. Lewis, the well-known solicitor, and St Edward Clark and Mr. Gill are counsel in the case. Some surprise is expressed that Here should now prepare to contest extradition to the last point, when before arrest he had professed his readiness to surrender.

INTERVIEW WITH HERZ. Paris, Jan. 20.—The Figure publishes an inerview between a correspondent and M. Cornelius Herz. The visitor found M. Herr in bed and Mrs. Herz attending him. M. Herz looked worn and exhausted with physical and mental suffering. He seemed particularly hurt by the charge that h was a mere adventurer who had gained position and honor by unscrupulous methods, and enlarged upon his honorable career and mentioned the list of learned societies to which he belonged. He showed a letter from M. Barboux and M. DeFreycinet and also from Baron Nordenskiold, the noted naturality and explorer.

langer had felt so little confidence in Bohutel's statements that he declined to in-quire into the charges and handed the docu-ment to Herz. Dr. Herz said that he was ment to Hers. Dr. Herz said that he was willing to submit these documents to the Committee of Investigation of the Chamber of Deputies, and if the committee refused to examine them he would lay them before a jury of honor. So far from being a traitor to France, he was passionately devoted to France, and had gone to much personal trouble to serve French interests. In seeking to detach Italy from the Triple Alliance he went to Rome and cultivated the friendship of Sig. Crispi. He had exchanged letters with Sig. Crispi, which he was ready to produce before Crispi, which he was ready to produce before a jury of honor. Dr. Herz showed to the in-terviewer a letter from Gen. Menabrea, for-merly Italian Minister at Paris, written in flattering terms, and introducing him to nattering terms, and introducing him to sig. Orispi. Dr. Hera also showed other letters written by Gen. Menabrea while Ambassador, expressing high esteem for Herz. Dr. Hers added that he took Gen. Menabrea's own son into his employment at a salary of 1,000 francs a month, and spared neither pains or money to get Gen. Menabrea over to the side of France. In conclusion Dr. Herz sateful the poset. In conclusion, Dr. Hers stated that no act of corruption could be traced to him. During the whole campaign of corruption he was never in France, having been traveling abroad at the time. As to the future, he preferred suicide to prison.

IN DEFENSE OF THE PRISONERS.

The Court of Appeals before which the boodlers are being tried, adjourned. Panama boodlers are being tried, adjourned yesterday evening until next Tuesday. The day was mainly devoted to the address of counsel for defense, M. Barboux. Political considerations, he declared, had much to do with the prosecution, and he emphatically insisted that the men he was defending should not be made scape-goats for the advantage of any party or faction, or to advance the designs of ambi-tious men. He maintained that the probity of his clients was nowise affected by the indictment on which they were standing trial. He declared that the construction of the Panama Canal was far removed from speculative aims. In its inception and progress the scheme had an honorable foundation, though screenistic agrees. though speculation arose from it.

M. Barboux enlogized M. Ferdinand de Lesseps as a man of the highest character.

TO REMODEL THE EXCHANGE. Plans Euggested by President W. T.

The prospects are that the appearan of the Chamber of Commerce building will soon be changed very much for better. President W. T. Anderson of the Merchants' Exchange said this morning: "An architect is now looking over the building to see what can be done. My ideas are as follows: The dark, dingy woodwork should be painted a bright color all over the house. bright color all over the house.

We should have an electric plant of our own, with electric lights in every room. The elevators should be run on the rapid transit principle, and we could supply our own electricity. The south arcade should be made into a pleasant smoking room. The present inadequate washing arrangements ought to be replaced by much better ones. I want to have the floor of the hall in the second story, which is now very shaky, laid in tiling. Then the reading-room and the directors' room should be remodeled. My idea is to make the building attractive throughout, and the increase in the rentals would son more than compensate for the cost, even if we had to pay $5,000 a year interest for a time, it should be remembered that we are no longer paying $25,000 a year rent. As to the Fourth street entrance, we will not think of paying $10,000 for it, or anything like that sum." that sum."

The views of Mr. Anderson called forth general approval from many on the floor.

SHOCKING DEATH OF AN ENGINEER AT ST.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Jan. 20,-At 7:20 o'clock this morning Fritz Ossick, engineer of the foundry department of the St. Charles Car Co., met with a shocking death while ofling a large shaft connecting two divisions of machinery in the car company's works. Although no one saw how the accident happened, it appears that the sleave of his jacket caught in the oil box and immediately wound him upon the shaft, causing his death by striking his head on the scaffold at every revolution of the shaft. The man's arms were torn from their sockets and his head was crushed into an indescribable mass of flesh and bone. Deceased leaves a wife and six children and will be buried tomorrow afternoon.

REAL ESTATE INTERESTS.

There was never anything like such a farreaching demand for suburban properties beyond the city limits as there is at the present time. The sales of these properties at various railroad points in the county of St.
Louis were very large last year. Between Jan. I and Dec. 10 1892 thirty-two subdivisions were platted and opened up in St. Louis County and offered for sale in lots on the open market. In these thirty-two new subdivisions outside the city limits there are set blocks and 8,127 lots, with an aggregate frontage of 223,425 feet. This is equivalent to a lot frontage of nearly sixty-two miles in extent. During the preceding year, 1891, the extent. During the preceding year, 1891, the county plat books show that there was twenty-eight miles of lot frontage subdivided. From this it will be seen that there vided. From this it will be seen that there was nearly three times as much property subdivided beyond the city limits, [in st. Louis County, last year as there was in 1891. Notwithstanding this wonderful lacrease in the subdivision and placing upon the market of outside subdivision property inst year, the demand for that class of read estate is continued right now, in the midwinter season, with as much activity, or more, than has been ordinarily experienced, in spring time, and the comparative increase in the value of the property sold in the outside districts has been equally large.

THE HIGHEST PRICE REFUSED.

The highest price that has ever been offered for practically vacant Washington avenue property was refused to day by Lindell Gordon for the property fronting 28x150 feet at the southeast corner of Twelfth. The offer, substantially made for this property, was $3,000 a foot, but Mr. Gordon, representing the owners, the heirs of Mary D. Patchen, says they would not take $4,000 a foot for the sith. Although it is very poorly improved with some cheap one-story shops the property produces a rental of over $3,700 a year at the present time. This is equivalent to five per cent per annum on a valuation of $3,000 a foot for the ground, which might be enhanced many fold by the construction of a building upon the site which would meet the growing business requirements of Washington avenue.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20,-Judge Stowe de livered his charge in the Homestead poisoning case against Hugh F. Dempsey, District Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, at the opening of court this morning and the jury retired shortly before noon. At 2:05 the special jury returned with a verdict of guilty. The jury was out about three hours. At 1:10 o'clock they structions as to the third and fourth counts. which charged defendant with conspir ing with divers persons unknown to admin r poison. The court told the jury there was no evidence to war rant conviction on these counts and the case turned on the first count, which charged him with administering poison with the intent to commit murder. It the jury believed him guilty of being implicated in the administration of the poison he was guilty of the first count. The jury retired upon the furtner instructions. The impression given by the questions asked by the jury was that the verdict would be guilty. Mr. Porter, attorney for Dempsey, looked disap-pointed and said: "That looks like conviction to me, unless I am very much sur-prised." The jury returned at 1:20 with prised." The jury returned at 1:20 with a verdict of guilty as indicted. The court-room was crowded with the friends of the defendant at the time and the verdict created a sensation, but there was no outward demonstration. The defendant turned pale at the announcement and at once left the court-room in company with his counsel. He is under $10,000 bail.

Judge Stowe, in charging the jury in the Dempsey case this morning, reviewed very carefully and impartially all the points of the testimony brought out during the trial. It was for the jury, he said, to determine whether poison was put into the coffee or tea or the food at the mill. This question depends solely upon the testiinto the coffee or tea or the food at the mill. This question depends solely upon the testimony of Gallagher and Davidson. If they tell the truth, the defendant was the originator and pricipal in the case and should be held responsible for whatever Gallagher and Davidson did in pursuance of his instructions. Now, just here comes the great question so far as the defendant is concerned. Dempsey emphatically denies what Gallagher and Davidson say in regard to the purpose for which he employed them. He is a competent, but an interested witness. They are also competent, but suspicious and tainted witnesses. But the jury may, if they believe their testimony, convict from it believe their testimony, convict from it alone.

The first arrest made in the poison case was that of R. J. Beattey, who was taken at Louisville, Ky., on Dec. 10. His arrest was made on the evidence of the man employed as cook for the non-union men at the Carnegte Iron and Steel Works at Homestead.

It will be remembered that shortly after the militia came to Homestead much sickness broke out among the men at the mill. It was stated at the time that typhoid fever was prevalent among them and this caused a private investigation by the Carnegie Steel Company, followed by an investigation by the State Board of Health. The physicians were at a loss to find a cause for the sickness and the caused and the carnegie Steel will be successful to the carnegie Steel Company, followed by an investigation by the State Board of Health. but finally concluded that it was the water used among the employes.

It seems that one of the chief cooks for the Carnegie company "squealed" on the plot and in this way H. C. Frick got hold of the story. The chief cook tried to hire a certain man in Pittsburg. He told this man that he was in search of two assistants who could make big money by going to Homestead. He said that he was to get $5,000 if he succeeded in closing the mill. The man, together with a friend whom the chief cook had tried to hire, went to Mr. Frick and told him the story in his private office, Attorneys took down their statements, and the two men were told to go ahead and let the chief cook hire them, in order that they might get at the details of the plot. The Carnegie company also placed detectives to watch over the two men.

The day after their arrival at Homestead a number of millmen took sick. The chief cook said he had placed a colored powder in the food and told the assistants to do the same. A little later Charles Glosser, one of the nonunion men, died.

The chief cook was reported very uneasy, it was feared he might leave the city, so he was summoned to Mr. Frick's office, ostensibly for instructions. He was confronted by the story of those in the conspiracy and the amount of money he was to have received. The cook begged not to be placed in jail. He has been under strict surveillance since.

Since the beginning of the trial two of the men poisoned have died. After the arrest of Beattey facts came out implicating other prominent Knights of Labor, among them Master Workman Dempsey, who was found guilty by the jury to-day.

CHARLES W. THORNE, THE BANK ROBBER, AR-RESTED AT ST. PAUL. .Sr. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 20.-Charles W. Thorne of Kansas City, lately messenger in one of the banks of that city and who left there Monday with $11,500 of the bank's money, was arrested here. At the time of his apprehension he had in money, was arrested here. At the time of his apprehension he had in his possession all of the money with the exception of $4,000, which he had sent to a sporting woman in Minneapolis to keep for him and which was recovered. He wrapped the money in a newspaper and left the bank, saying he was ill and would not be back until next morning. It was the last seen of him in Kansas City. He changed his personal appearance, hired a horse and buggy, went to a small station on the Maple Leaf road and boarded the night train for Sloux City. In Sloux City he purchased a large number of cigars, a satchel and an entire new suit of dothes. From Sloux City he went to Burlington and thence to St. Paul. A telegram was sent from Sloux City describing the man, and when the train arrived a detective found him in the car sorting his cigar samples. He showed so little knowledge of the cigar trade that he was invited to accompany the detective. When taken to headquarters and questioned he made a full confession, offering $5,000 to secure his release. He had $7,200 in the valise, and gave the address of the woman in Minneapolis who had the other $4,000. The matter will probably be settled without prosecution, as Thorne has an uncle who is a member of the Board of Directors of the bank.

COUGHLIN'S NEW TRIAL. The Prisoner Will Be Transferred to the Jail in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.-Attorney W. S. Forest at 10:45 this morning, received from Ottawa the official order of the Supreme Court reversing the decision of the lower court in the Coughlin case. He will go into Judge Mc-Connell's court with the order and secure from the court an order formally redocketng the case in the criminal court of Cook County. This will be done as a matter of course, and a mitimus will be issued to the Sheriff for the possession of Daniel Coughlin. The Sheriff will then send a deputy sheriff for the possession of Daniel Coughlin. The Sheriff will then send a deputy to Jollet, probably this afternoon or evening, and Coughlin will be brought to Chicago and given his quarters in the county jail until the case is retried.

The decision of the Supreme Court granting Coughlin a new trial touches the body of facts and allegations which the public in general designates as "the Cronin case" at only one material point. That is, it says no proof was adduced that the Clan-na-Gael society was cognizant of the murder of Cronin or that Coughlin was implicated as a member of that society and through the machination of Camp 20. The Clan-na-Gael, indeed, is stricken out of the case. The court's decision hinged entirely upon the question of the competence of Jurors Bontecon and Clark. But it reopens the case, and friends of the convicted detective believe that he will go free.

Jailor Morris and two deputy sheriffs left the city at 1 o'clock this afternoon for the Penitentiary at Joliet for the purpose of bringing Coughlin back to the County Jail. They were armed with a capias issued by the Clerk of the Criminal Court after Coughlin's case had been reinstated on the criminal docket. Their return this evening depends upon whether the Warden of the Penitentiary has received a certified copy of the Supreme Court proceedings. Without such a copy the Warden will not give Coughlin into the custody of the Sheriff and the deputies will have to await its arrival.

In the opinion granting a new trial the court says:

"We are of the opinion that Jurors Bontecour and Clark were disqualified, and that the decision of the ourt overruling the challenge to these jurors was errone-ous. This error necessarily works a reversal of the judgment as to the defendant in error; and disposes of the case before us. We, therefore, hear no expression of any opinions as to the various other questions raised by counsel, but for the serior above indicated the judgment as to defendant in error; and disposes of the case before us. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 20 .- The Senat was the only branch of the Assembly that met to-day, the House having adjourned over yesterday out of respect of the memory of ex-President Hayes.

Wurdeman's World's Fair resolution me on Sundays was the special order, and a debate was expected, but it did not material ize, as the matter was laid over informally.

The Committee on Penitentiary and Reform Schools presented a report recommending that all penitentiary bills concerning the st of convict labor be referred to the Joint three Senators and four Representatives.

A number of petitions favoring the retail nerchants' garnishment measure were read. and Senator McGinnis precipitated an hour's debate by moving that they be spread on the ournal. No action, however, was taken. Senator Busche introduced a resolution spect to the memory of the late ex-President Hayes and moving adjournment. There was a discussion led by Senator McGinnis, who objected to the stablishment of such a precedent; he said such resolutions were in order only for ac tual officials of the Government of the United and Cochran agreed with him. Before any action was taken the Senate adjourned until Monday.

The advance guard, of the Firemen's Pension and Relief Association arrived to-day.

Capt. Eugene Gross, H. T. Bridge and Thomas Shea of the Legislature Committee came up from St. Louis, and saw a number of members in behalf of the bill. Gov. Stone returned to day from the Road convention at Sedalia, but had no appoint-

THE UNDERGROUND WIRE BILL.

The Senate Committee on Cities, Towns and Villages will take up the Stone underground wire bill next week if Chairman Lyman can dispose of some other matters requiring early attention. The usual procedure, when a committee decides to take up a bill is to give the author of the measure ample notice to the end that he may notify persons interested in the measure to attend and present their views and Senator Stone as yet has received no notice. One committee assigned to consider this measure of much importance to St. Louis is composed of Senator Lyman of Kansas City the chairman, Calley of Lawrence County, Hendrickson of Jasper, Tunnell of Webster and Weeks of Callaway.

Senator Lyman is the only city member on the committee the others helling tenneous.

Hendrickson of Jasper, Tunnell of Webster and Weeks of Callaway.

Senator Lyman is the only city member on the committee, the others hailing from country places.

Senator Lyman, who will have much to do with the handling of the bill, is a comparatively young man with a high rank in the Kansas City Bar Association. During the last session he was at the head of the Appropriations Committee in the House and made a good record there. The bill was fought bitterly last session by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies and all the electric light companies. It is expected as a mattir of course that the same arguments will be employed again, Jefferson City is awaiting the lo bby that will be sent up by these corporations. They were here before and were not parsimonious in "setting 'em up' for the boys.

CHANCE FOR BOODLERS.

Some of the bills affecting corporations will give boodling members a chance to make a "riffie," as it is called here. This ciass of legislators is not confined to the members from cittes by any manner of means. The country sections have produced some of the most skilled operators in this line. On the subject of legislative boodling a story is told of a certain member who while out for what he could grab, did not possess the faculty of concealing his game. During the extra session a year ago, when the excitement over the proposed regame. During the extra session a year ago, when the excitement over the proposed removal of the State University ran high, he was quietly watching for opportunities. When a vote showed that Columbia needed only two votes and the opposition secured an adjournment, the delegation from the university town went to work to get the votes. One of the members who it was reported had been caught by a Sedalia offer was one of the Representatives sought.

A Columbian met him standing in front of the Madison House bar and approaching him had a long and serious talk with him. Finally he turned to the bar and remarked, "by the way, what will you take?" meaning of course, an invitation to drink. Greatly to his amazement the legislator said quickly: "About $500 will get me."

The representative of the Columbia delegation almost collapsed, but he did not pay the $500 or any part of it. His vote was not needed.

The ESSENIC KNIGHTS.

The Sest called the Essenes, from which John the Baptist and Jesus Christ sprang. The sect was composed of ascetics of the most rigorous rules of life, and the principles laid down in the "agreement" are intended to lead the members to emulate the examples set in the practice of asceticism. The objects of the order, as set forth by its promoters, are to unite fraternally all acceptable members thereof, to give all possible moral and material aid and assistance to its members, to carafor the sick and disabled, the poor and distressed. The tenets laid down are unity, toleration and charity, and demand that the Knights "leave outside the Fenate chamber all ambitious rivalry, ill. will and jealousies, to the end that they may find a common platform on which men of all nations, seets and opinions may meet and blend in harmony, animated by the grand design of developing the virtues of brotherly love, culture and hospitality." The strange feature of the organization is that its head-quarters in St. Louis are in the office of the American Protective Association in the Allen building.

CONFICTING AIMS.

The objects of the two organizations are directly opposite. The A. P. A. advocates the ruling of America by Americans only and the denriving of men of all other nations of the right to vote or hold office here. It also aims to down Roman Catholicism in the United States and to defeat at the polis any candidate who is a Catholic, is related in any way to a Catholic, has any sympathy for the Catholic Church, or has any Catholic associates or affiliations of any kind. The Essenic Knights advocate "a common platform where men of all nations, sects and opinions may meet and blend in harmony." Stranger still, Louis E. Mr. Joy was equally watchful, but he appeared to have very little occasion for raising any points.

One ballot was so cut up that it was regarded as "no vote," but it was so interesting that a description was taken.

Another bailot éDem.) had little "crossmarks" in pencil opposite several of the candidates 'names, and O'Neill's name was designated with a "cross" in ink. It was counted for O'Neill, but a description was taken.

There were 32 rejected ballots. About half were of such a character that one or the other side demanded a description. In most of them two or three of the tickets were unscratched, and Joy or O'Neill on the remaining ticket were scratched. Three of the 82 went as no vote.

ostmasters by the people they are to serve will receive the hearty support of the Republicans, at least in Republican communities. There is no reformer so zealous postmasters should be chosen by the people, but these officials will be appointed Washington.

THERE is no reason why the city should pay half the expense of building conduits for electric light companies and then give the right of perpetual use for nothing. Let subways be built which shall accommodate all the wires and let the city bear the whole expense. Then the wire companies can be forced underground and forced to pay an annual rental which will extinguish whatever debt is incurred when it matures besides yielding a handsome revenue for all time.

A SIGNIF CANT SPECTACLE.

The graceful act of respect embodied in ex-President Cleveland's long trip to attend the funeral of ex-President Hayes, is especially significant in view of the circumstances connected with the latter's presidential term.

The presence of a Democratic ex-President and President-elect at the grave of this Republican ex-President affords a spectacle calculated to renew and least, Republican officials should not carry strengthen faith in the stability of the Republic and to inspire profound admiration of the influences which the enjoyment of liberty and the exercise them in subways owned and controlled in of its privileges exert upon men. The awarding of the Presidency to Hayes represented the perpetration of a great wrong upon the Democratic party and the majority of the people, and the self-restraint, the patient unselfishness which permitted him to take and occupy the office in peace was a notable victory of patriotism over partisanship, a triumph of free self-government. The proof of the strength of Republican institutions presented by the bloodless close of the political drama in which Hayes was the chief actor was increased by the exercise of supreme power by the wronged party afterwards without a particle of bitterness or vengeful animosity towards the conspirators. That generous patriotism and self-control do not exhaust the noble traits developed by freedom is shown by the fact that the principal eneficiary of this conspiracy has been freely given by his political opponents all the credit to which his personal virtues entitled him and at his death is paid a special mark of respect by their chosen representative. The spectacle at Fremont and the mean ing and lesson it embodies is worth the attention of mankind.

PRIVATE OR PUFLIC MONOPOLIES.

The opposition to the Stone underground wire bill comes from corporations, each one of which is playing for an advantage over all the others. It is well known that the company which first occupies the streets and subways will have a commanding position and possibly an absolute monopoly of underground passages. Only those having unlimited capital can build subways after the ground has been taken by the first comer. Practically then the question is which company shall be the first "to get in its work?"

In the circumstances there is only one way out of the difficulty. The city's interests must be fully protected and justice fairly dealt to all the users of underground privileges. These objects can be accomplished only if the city undertakes the work on its own account and constructs subways large enough to meet all future demands. In this way all wire companies will be put on a footing of equality, and none will have for an excuse that it is unable to comply with the exactions of monopoly. At the same time the value of the privileges, increasing every year with the growth of population, will be secured to the city, which will procure by this means a large and much needed

Financially there can be no sound objection to this, because the rentals will be more than enough to pay the interest on the bonds issued, besides a sinking fund to discharge the debt at maturity. Even if the city manages the work of construction itself the extravagance usually attending such public enterprises will be less costly to the tax-payers than the surrender of valwhich will collect all the revenue justly be

OPPORTUNITY AND TEMPTATION. The defense of ex-Treasurer Foerstel for sulted in a defalcation, is inadmis out in explanation of it he used a phras the fitness of which has been widely illustrated in similar cases. He spoke of the 'opportunity and temptation'' which led misappropriation of the public

Scarcely a case of defalcation has ocsurred in offices of trust that the facts have not shown neglect or violation of laws providing safeguards and checks to prevent the loss of money. Within a score of miles of St. Louis a case supplementary to and apparently far more aggravated than the Foerstel shortage has just occurred illustrating this point. In the defalcation of Treasurer Mittelberger of St. Charles County the evidence indicates that at the beginning of his term he shifted a shortage from the office of City Treasurer, which he held previously, to the County Treasury, where, through the negligence of supervising officials, as the man who is out. It may be that he was enabled to increase it steadily during his entire term. It appears that despite a law requiring the County Court to exagain whenever the Republicans return to amine the cash and accounts of the Treasarer at least twice a year his statement with reference to them was blindly accepted, even when there was suspicion of crookedness, Could dishonesty find better opportunity or stronger temptation

> But the neglect of the safeguards provided by law is not the only way in which the St. Charles authorities are bettering the example of their neighbors in St. Louis. Although Mittelberger has freely confessed his guilt the aware of the fact that defalcation in public office is a crime. They seem to accept wretched pleas of losses through generosity and a desire to boom the town as to Sunday, that no unnecessary labor be as a sufficient defense of the crime of theft. They apparently are forgetful of the fact that the place for an official who uses public funds to boom a town by personal speculation and to boom his generosity is within the walls of a fail. When officials entrusted with the care of public money find safeguards neglected and laws violated and when they see official thievery go unpunished is it any wonder that in this age of greedy speculation that the "opportunity and temptation" foster dishonesty and multiply defalcations?

THE attempt of the boy ruler of Egypt to free himself and his country from British domination ended as might have been expected. England will not give up any advantage she possesses for the reason that she is "not built that way," and cannot yield without loss of prestige and consequent decline of influence. Besides, it is doubtful if Egypt could stand alone at this time, and it is only a question between the greater powers as to which of them shall hold possession. As England is on the ground she has nine points in her favor and the other powers will have to put up with a disagreeable situation until war, perhaps, changes the aspect of affairs.

article headed "Checks Which Do Not vestigating the shortage which recently occurred in the City Treasury stated "the sys-tem of checks and balances are so complete that it would be difficult if impossible to improve it. The simple and a most effective one in vogue to examine at no stated time, the United States examine at no stated time, the United States Sub-Ireasuries. The modus operandi is simply this: The Secretary of the Treasury appoints from time to time three of his employes, to go at once to a designated place, where a Sub-Treasury exists. The parties so authorized, when arriving at the designated places, present themselves to the Assistant Treasurer, showing their authority, and demand the keys to the vaults and lock the doors of the office and outsiness is at once suspended. Cash is then counted, books examined and a true balance found. Since this system has been inaugurated no defaications have occurred in the Sub-Treasuries of the country. So that this system is effective and complete is self-evident.

Mayor Noonan Formally Declares Himself a Candidate.

He Announces His Plans in a Frank Interview.

His Friends Present Him With a Dismond Shield and Start His Boom With Bulogistic Speeches - In Reply His Honor Fromises to Beet the Whole Ticket With Him, Assuring Them That He Has Aiready Organized the Wards-No Money for Boodlers.

The duliness with which the spring campaign has opened has gone, and from this candidate who wants to keep abreast of the canvass will have to work. Mayor Noonan is out for re-election and has begun a campaign he promises shall eclipse that famous one o four years ago when he snatched a conven-tion out of the hands of George W. Allen and plucked victory out of the jaws of defeat in he last six hours of election day.

JUST BEFORE HE WAS READY. Mayor Noonan has been denying that he was a candidate for re-election. Yesterday when seen by a reporter Mayor Noonan was entirely non-committal in speaking of his civic aspirations. He declined to either deny or affirm the current report that he would be a candidate for re-election to the office he now holds. "I am inclined to foltrying to crowd sufficient worry existence, something less years, allotted to 100 years, allotted to them upon this planet. The election is still a ninety days' stretch into the future, much oo far away to allow me to pay it more than passing attention. I speak candidly when I say that I do not know whether I shall run for the office of Mayor again or not."

"Have you authorized your friends to conduct a canvass on your behalf?"
"No, I have not. 1 am approached daily, yes, many times a day, upon this subject, but as far as possible I try to be and have been as non-committal as possible. My friends are, of course, importuning me to leclined to give the permission they seek.'

"Have you formulated any plans at all in connection with your possible future candi-dacy for this or any other office?" "None at all. My state at present may be lescribed as one of pacific philosophy that's a good one—and I shall have to give the matter much more thought before I finally decide. My friends must not take any steps before that decision is announce my determination in a short time.' The Mayor was placed in that positi within a few hours afterwards. The NOONAN MEN RENDEZVOUS.

There were several city officials and many employes of the city. City Counselor William C. Marshall, the President of the association, was among the earliest of those who came. Then there were assessor of Water Rates T. E. Scuily, Assistant City Jounselor William P. Mackim, Superintendent of Streets John L. District Street Superintendent George Gonsails had been invited, but was sick and couldn't be at the place of rendezvous. At 8 o'clock the party left Councilman Cullinane's stable and marched and John Mcdaw of the Twenty-fourth.

District Street Superintendent George Gonsails had been invited, but was sick and couldn't be at the place of rendezvous. At so 'clock the party left Councilman Oullinane's stable and marched to the residence of Mayor Noonan. City Counselor Marshall rang the bell, and the visitors were ushered by the servant who opened the door into the parior where Mayor's Secreary James W. Brennan was awaiting them. The doors of the dining-room were thrown open. In there was a large table on which were boxes of cigars, wine and stronger liquors. In a minute or two the Mayor came in and welcomed the guests, shaling hands with each one. Then Counselor Marshall drew from its concealment in his pocket a jewel case, and rising, holding the case in his hand, made a little speech to the Mayor. He said that his honor's many friends had determined to show their esteem for him by presenting him with a shield as an emblem of the Mayor's watchful guard over the interests of the city. He and the others who joined with him in asking his honor to accept this outward sign of their inward regard for him, hopel, moreover, that it might not be worn only at the end of a first term, but through the years of a second term.

Counselor Marshall is a clever or hand talker, and his speach aroused enthusiasm. It was loudly applauded, and while the handclapping continued the City Counselor went up to the Mayor and fastened the shield by its gold pla to the breast of his honor. It was a beautiful plece of jewelry and the spectators applauded avain as the light flashed on it after it became the Mayor's.

REPUBLICANS TRYING TO GERRYMANDER THE SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 20.—The Republican senatorial apportionment bill, as introduced in the House and Senate, gives Cook County senatorial apportionment bill, as introduced in the House and Senate, gives Cook County sixteen districts, of which eight are to be Democratic, six Republican and two doubtful. Besides Cook County there are to be seventeen Democratic and eighteen Republican districts. This will make a total of twenty-four Republican, twenty-five Democratic and two doubtful districts. The only ground which the Republicans have to hope for the success of this measure is that it invites the support of certain Democratic members from Cook County. It is not yet settled, however, that Cook County will get sixteen districts. The ratio of representation being about 73.000, Cook County will be entitled to filteen full districts, and there will then remain a surplus of 66,000. Attorney-General Maloney, who is now condined to his room, will, as soon as possible, ascertain whether under the Constitution Cook County is entitled to one more district by this surplus. The row among the Republicans was carried into the House this morning and they organized as obstructionists, demanding roll call, absentees and verification on everything. Consul Hanna's Views on the Outcome of the Meeter Case.

New York, Jan. 20.—Prillip C. Hanna, United States Consul at La Guayra, Venesuela, who is on 'leave of absence, has arrived in this city. In conversation with a reporter regarding the condition of affairs in the country to which he is assigned, he said: "Everything was very quiet and peaceful at the time I left. Business was good and the people have settled down to their every day pursuits well satisfied and with tabrough confidence in the Government."

When asked what he thought of the outcome of the case of Capt. Meeker, the officer who was sent to guard the american Consulate, and who was charged with neglect of duty, Mr. Hanna made a most emphatic answer, upholding the Captain and praising

"I consider," said Mr. Hanna, "that It was an outrage to order a court martial which was uncalled for, and that the steps afterward taken were as unjust and unwarranted. Capt. Meeker acted precisely as he should have done under the circumstances. I want to emphasize the stances. I want to emphasize the fact that he was complimented upon the course he pursued by all the Consuls in La Guayra, by the military officers of foreign governments, and by the business men of the place. These gentlemen were all surprised and indignant when they learned of the charges made against the Captain and of the unfair treatment accorded him, I had not asked for protection for the Consulate until after dark, and the event which caused all the trouble took place during the afternoon. It was on Friday, Oct.

During the afternoon, the office being open for business.

I received a number of Consuls, officers and citizens. Capt. Mesker acted precisely as I should have done and is to be commended. The Captain and myself went out about 1 o'clock and it was during our absence that liquor was smuggled in and drank by some of the marines. It was carried in by my colored servant who was in the secret with the men. Not until 4 o'clock did Capt. Meeter know of the liquor being in the hands of the marines. Then it was that he took the sergeant to task, assumed direct command of the men and remained on duty all night, and until he returned to the ship, having no food and no sleep.

'To accuse this officer of neglect of duty to tax him with failure to act as an officer should under similar circumstances, as far as placing his men was concerned, was an outrage. MRS. DEACON'S D. PENSE.

It Throws New Light on the Tragedy at Cannes. New York, Jan. 20;-The defense which Mrs. Edward Parker Deacon will set up in answer to her husband's suit for divorce in the New York courts, throws new light on the Cannes trazedy, in which Deacon shot and killed M. Abeille. Edmond Kelly is conducting Mrs. Deacon's side of the case. He ducting Mrs. Deacon's side of the case. He says:

'The papers sent to me from Paris in the case of Deacon against Deacon show facts very different to those communicated from time to time to the press of this city. As far as my memory serves me the press reported that Abellie was shot under circumstances which could leave no doubt as to the guilt of the parties. Their attire and the place of the shooting seeemed to prove this. It turns out, however, that the evidence before the Court of Assizes shows that no such conclusion can be drawn.

'In the first place the shooting took place in Mrs. Deacon's drawing-room and not in her bed-room, as stated. Mrs. Deacon wore a tea-gown and Mr. Abelie had on a smoking jacket. The idea that the situation of the partles at the time of the murder justified the murder has been practically abandoned by Mr. Deacon himself.

'The history of Deacon's efforts in this direction is illustrative of the man. He first brought an action for divorce against his wife on the statutory grounds, but when his wife brought a counter claim on the ground of cruelty he witndrew the action for divorce. He then went to the Public Prosecutor, asking that Mrs. Deacon be indicted. This application was peremptorily refused Under Art. 182 of the Code, however, a husband is allowed to proceed against his wife on a criminal charge. This step he next took, and the Court of Appeals will shortly decide whether this action must be dismissed on the ground of subsequent reconciliation.

'Meanwhile Mrs. Deacon has been greatly decide whether this action must be dismissed on the ground of subsequent reconclilation.

"Meanwhile Mrs. Deacon has been greatly misrepresented. Owing to her own generosity she was unwilling by any attempt to exonerate herself to endanger the life of her husband when he was on trial for murder, and at that crisis allowed statements to be published regarding her without contradiction. It is a somewhat unfair return on the part of her husband that her silence in his interest should be used against her.

"As regards the accusations of impropriety made against Mrs. Deacon, there is much to be said in her behalf. The friends of Alf-ille laugh at the idea of any criminal relations were impossible for the best of reasons."

Mr. Redmond exhibited a letter written by the Superior of the convent where Krs. Deacon sought an asylum during her husband's trial. The letter, which was addressed to Maltre Barboux, is as follows:

SIR-1 believe you will not be assonished to receive a word from me regarding bifs Deacon, if only to tell you what affectionate sympathy her stay in our convent has inspired in us all. World's Fair Race Meeting Brings Out Fine Entries.

THE PICK OF HORSEDOM IN THE COLUMBUS HANDICAP.

World in the Great Events-The L. A. W. Bacing Board Prepares a Solution for the Amateur Problem-General

entries of the nine great stakes of the shington Park Club have been removed in measure by the open sesame of Secretary swater. Horsemen who had made entries w know their fate. It will be impossible to ish an official list of entries for several because of the non-arrival of mall from ant portions of the United States, says thicago Beening Post man. But out of the trees of entries received, the most important information for Westerners interted in racing is that Yo Tambien, about ple mystery, is entered in the $25,000 bus handicap, the rich Wheeler, the Western, Boulevard and Oakwood, at her in all but the Boulevard will race "horse of steel," Blitzen, Virginia Brad-"sanimal that proved himself to be one the best colts of the year in his sensa-nal work at Guttenburg, Garfield or Sara-the great son of Blazes and his ter, Duchess, the property of Gushing & Duchess, the property of Cushing & will do some sensational racing Aimost every big crack in the will be seen in these entries, vill narrow down to a small number. Lamp ter will be here. Marcus Daly's great, Tammany, will show his form against old-time Eastern rivals, and the pet amofenthusiasts will be realized when any, Lamplighter and Yo Tambien, stchie, Judge Morrow, Tulia Black-Nomad, Wadsworth, Wildwood, Huron, ne, Helen Nichols (possibly) and at cracks of the country meet on the sty track at Washington Park to settle the on of superiority.

ith the Columbus handicap for race horses. this great race will be time and race-tried stalwarts. No race ever run in the East will furnish the material that has already been red in this, with the possibility that in two days Col. North's English entries with two days col. North's Engines entries with thirty-six and thirty-seven entries respectively, are surpassed. They contain very few hores from the Central States, and only Wildwood from the Great West. The big events of Washington Park show entries from the Atlantic to the Pacinc, and from the Bitter Root Valley in Montana to the warm ranches of the San Joaquin Valley. With Mike Dwyer, "Lucky" Baldwin, Senator Fair, Mr. Macdonough, Johnny McCafferty, the Pelo Alto farm and the English horsemen yet to be heard from, to say nothing of E. Watson Taylor, the young Kentuckian, and "Old Pail" Sharkey, the Columbus has eighty first class racers entered.

Guttenburgers should be proud of the showing that Bilizen gets in these big events. The game fellow was not racing in mud, snow and ice for nothing. He is reputed to be on a keen edge, and with say 11s pounds up it may be Bilizen's race.

Seventy odd cracks will contest for the rrive. The Brooklyn and Suburban, may be Blitzen's race.

Sayenty odd cracks will contest for the $5,000 added Wheeler handicap. Van Buren, the jack-rabbit of the Kendall stable, galloped away from ordinary company and won the Wheeler at odds of 8 to 1 last season, but with the cracks entered this year a never-win-until-the-wire-is-passed race will be given.

win-until-the-wire-is-passed race will be given.

There is but $2,000 added to the Great Western Handicap, but over sixty entries have been made and it is almost certain that at least Biltzen, Tammany, Lamplighter, Yo Tambien, Mars, Wildwood, Major Domo, La Tosca, World's Fair and some of the country's best one-mile-and-a-half horses will face the starter. The distance is rather hard on some of the Eastern horses entered that have been accustomed to one mile races, but that will make the race all the better. Fifty-seven horses are entered for the Dearborn, while the owners fight shy of the Maiden stakes for 3-year-olds. Only twenty-eight entries have been received for that event. Youngsters from all over the country fairly slop over in the Lake View handicap. Over one hundred entries have been docketed so far, and the owners do not stop short with that race. The Quickstep sweepstakes are desired by over one hundred and twenty-five horses. Over sixty-five entries have been received for the Oukwood sweep.

have osen received for the Oakwood sweepstakes.

John Coughlin, with his good Fonso stock, shows up prominently among the owners.
World's Fair is perhaps his best entry and if the colt retains his last year's form he will give some of the older horses a rub. Will entries arrive from Mike Dwyer? is the question of the hour. If they do not, Banquet, Longstreet and the mighty Kingston will not be seen here, and that will be a pity. There is still time for Æina stable entries to arrive from Louisville, and Johnny McCafferty may be heard from with Queenie Trowbridge, Aloha, Hugh Penny and Helen Nichols and some of his other racers. The California contingent is sure to be represented. Mary McGowan and other good performers from the Kentucky stable may be seen in the lists. Jimmy McLaughlin has not sent an entry, but his nominations may come with the next Eastern

The suspension of a dozen or more of the ountry's crack riders at a recent meeting of the L. A. W. Racing Board has been the senation of the week in cycling circles. It turns out now that things will not go so hard with the men as was anticipated. The Racing Board has been doing some hard thinking over the amateur question and has made public in the current number of the official organ their plan of solving the distracting problem. The amateur definition has been broadened by the creation of two classes, A and B, in the first of which wo classes, A and B, in the first of which iders will be held to a strict mark, being barred from accepting money or expenses is any shape or form or from bartering or real izing on their prizes, which are to be limite to medals, jewelry or diplomas not to excee in value $50. che increased taxation thrust upon the property owners of East St. Louis by the Board of Supervisors. In response to the call, which was issued by F. J. Steger, G. F. Becker and others, quite a number of tax payers were on hand when the meeting opened. George F. Becker was chosen Chairman and F. J. Steger, Secretary. The meeting was rather short, the proceedings being conned to the discussion of the tax question and the appointment of a committee to make further investigations. It was stated by objectors who addressed the meeting that the Board of Supervisors had doubled the rate of taxation on personal property and increased that on real estate 25 per cent, so that the assessment in this township would be increased more than $500,000. The increase in the personal property assessment, it was claimed, will amount to $30,000, and the real estate assessment would be raised $250,000. The law on the subject was read and as the objectors were of the opinion that they had good grounds for protest, they appointed a committee to investigate further. This committee was instructed to report at another meeting to be held next Tuesday.

was told that Williams did not have any money deposited at the bank since the July previous.

"Williams was formerly connected with the Wabash Railroad Co. In East St. Louis," said Mr. Aal. He came into my store and asked me if I would cash a check for $100, as the banks were closed. I said 'certainly,' and did so.

"I have begun to think that I am a chump,' continued Mr. Aal. I have been beat out of $4,700 during the last year, and want to make an example of some one. A man came into my store one day and told a story of having an arm injured on the railroad. I went around the store and raised about $50. I followed him out and he went to a saloon. When I got into the saloon he was dividing up the $50 with a pal. He had his arm under his coat and it was all right. 'See,' said he, 'what I got on Washington avenue.'

"Another day a Hebrew woman came into the store with a pitiful story. It is not often that the Hebrews beg, for the societies take care of them. I went around with her to Rice, Stix & Co.'s and some other houses on Washington avenue and raised about $200. I followed her, too, and when I got into the place she went. I found a big, fat Jew lying up in bed smoking a big cigar, and on a table besides the bed was coffee and she was waiting on him. After all my years of experience I have begun to think that I am a chump. I am a dead sure mark."

COL RAYES OF TEXAS.

New York, Jan. 20.-The novel features i the perjury case against Col. Wm. B. Hayes of Texas, in which hiss Annie M. Keating is principal witness, have attracted much attention in the Court of General Sessions.

tention in the Court of General Sessions.

It was on Miss Keating's complaint that the indictment against Hayes was found by the Grand-jury. She alleged that Hayes gave hera promissory note for $2,000 in January, 1887, for two years at 6 per cent. When the note fell due Hayes refused to pay it, and siss Keating sued him in Rochester for the amount, with interest, and won the suit. Hayes, in order to have the judgment set aside, forwarded to Rochester an amidayit alleging that he had never made the note and that at the time it was dated he was in Florida. The indictment was found in January, 1892. Since then the Colonel has been out on ball, furnished by his wife.

Miss Keating is a pretty woman. She testined that she met Hayes in 1883, while attending a carnival at a skating rink in Detroit, Mich. She identified the note handed her as the one Hayes had given her. Mrs. Hayes, Miss Keating testified, had written the note and Hayes had signed it. She also remembered Hayes writing the assignments of two S500 mortgages on the day he signed the note.

In reply to a question why Hayes had ever the note.

In reply to a question why Hayes had ever given her his note for $2,000, Miss Keating said: "Mr. Hayes had promised to marry me, and he was the father of my child. I spoke repeatedly to Mr. and Mrs. Hayes about what he should do for the damages he had done me, and the note was given to me."

me."

Aliss Keating said she had borne three children, two of whom are dead, and that Hayes was the father of all of them.

Miss Keating said that shortly after her first meeting with Hayes they lived together as man and wife for some time. There was realistons ceremony. as man and wife for some time. There was no religious ceremony.

"When I found out that he was married I charged him with it," said she. "He at first denied, but finally admitted it. Then I asked him why he had not told me before, and he replied that he had kept it from me because I was a catholic and he was afraid I would throw him up."

The present suit grows out of Hayes' refusal to pay the note and making affidavit that it is a forgery.

They demand an increase in wages of a half cent per bushel and 10 per cent adof a half cent per bushel and 10 per cent advance in the pay of day labor. The striking miners are those at the Bender, McHenry, Taylor, Williams and Echols mines. Bell of Fulton, Mo., the architect in charge of the new buildings now in course of construction on the campus grounds at of construction on the campus grounds at Columbia, Mo. President Jesse is opposed to separating the Agricultural College from the State University, believing that by so doing it would deprive the students of the college of the benefit they derive from the university and cost the State over $250,000. In expressing his views on the removal question, which will again be agitated at the State Capital this winter, President Jesse said: 'I cannot see why certain parties are always agitating the severance of the Agricultural College from the University, as I do not see how it can possibly benefit the State, the institution or any of its various branches. If the college should be relocated, it would not injure the University to any great extent but, on the other hand, it would seriously cripple the college. This institution is a feature of the State University and its students are allowed the same privileges as those who attend the University. Locate the Agricultural College in a different section of the State and what would be the result? The State would have either to erect a second university or it would be a failure. Of Olive street. Set of teeth, $8. HOLMES' COMET.

Changes Undergone by the Erratic Stellar Tremp.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 20 .- Prof. Barnard of

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 20.—Prof. Barnard of the Lick Observatory was interviewed in regard to the recent activity visible in the Holmes comet. The phenomenon, news of which was cabled from Europe, had not escaped the observation of the Mount Hamilton expert, who declared that, according to his recent observations, the comet had exhibited the most wonderful transformation he had ever noticed in the career of one of those erratic bodies. On the night of Jan. 16, after a spell of cloudy weather, Prof. Barnard pointed his telescope toward the place of the comet hoping to obtain a final observation before its disappearance. He was astonished to find in the field a small, bright starlike body.

A little study showed that this must be the Holmes comet, since its position and movement exactly coincided. It appeared round and strongly condensed, but with no trace of a tail. At times the active nucleus or the star-like central point was clearly made out. The most wonderful of all was the enormous increase in brightness. From being a faint hazy batch, almost invisible in a large 11-inch telescope, the comet had changed suddenly to a bright object equal to a seventh of eighth magnitude star and easily visible in a large lil-inch telescope, the comet had changed suddenly to a bright object equal to a seventh of eighth meanitude star and easily visible in a little eight-inch finder. Prof. Barnard said that he examined the comet in both twelve-inch and thirty-six inch refractors. It even seemed to brighten perceptibly while under observation. He commenced observation at 6 o'clock, and two hours later he was sure that the comet was getting brighter and the nucleus developing. In the giant Lick refractor the comet was ground and sharp, with a bright stellar nucleus. The disk of light was greenish blue and the nucleus developing to this comet. It is the first instance on record where a comet has revised in brightness after recoding to this distance from perihellon.

HEARTLESS CRUELTY.

Children Left to Freeze by a Brutal Father. MOUNT PLEASANT, Io., Jan. 20,-"I'm so cold; won't you fix a fire?" was the feeble wall of an emaciated boy of 12 years as he lay fever-stricken in a dirty bed in a house on North Lincoln street yesterday. The only sponse to his wall was the stern command "shut up that nonsense or take a thrashto "shut up that nonsense or take a thrashing." A little later the lad died. He was the son of a man named Hathaway, a miser. The little fellow, together with his brother and sister, were compelled to go out in the cold each day and pick up coal along the railroad tracks. Failure to bring the stipulated amount was revarded with a whipping. The father went away and did not return for six week". When he got back two of the children were ill. They were left without food of any kind. The illness of the children made the inhuman father angry and he refused to give them medicine of any kind or cail a doctor. He would not allow a fire to be built in the house and many nights the boys were benumbed with the cold. Yesterday one of the boys died, his last words being an appeal to his father to build a fire that he might get warm. The other sick lad is not likely to recover, though neighbors have removed him from the hovel where he lay.

The ladies smiled and bowed their acknowledgements.
